

Abstract Of The Disclosure

5 The present invention relates to a swab for treating wounds. The swab comprises a stick to one end of which is attached a wound treating element. The wound treating element has a wound cleansing element and a hemostat-containing element. A reservoir is provided for retaining a cleansing or other solution in fluid communication with the wound cleaning 10 element.